

Re: Accommodating Guest Health Needs

Welcome to the Duke Energy Center for the Performing Arts!

We are thrilled to have you with us.

In response to the recent global coronavirus outbreak, we are actively monitoring state and federal guidelines and implementing best practices within the live entertainment industry to minimize any potential health risks at the center. We are proud to provide a healthy, clean environment where patrons and guests may focus on enjoying their time with us.

While coronavirus continues to be watched closely by the American public, health risks related to the common cold and seasonal flu are of greater importance at this time. In response, we have amplified our general healthy hygiene practices this cold and flu season.

Should you have a patron who is feeling unwell, please contact an usher or our Front of House manager immediately so that we may assist you in accommodating their needs. An usher will walk your patron to a private, designated room to give them privacy and a place to rest. If anything further is needed, we are happy to assist.

Again, thank you joining us here at the Duke Energy Center. As always, we are here to help you!

Sincerely,
